Hi natapat,

You are cordially invited to serve as a reviewer for the Southeastern Decision Science Institute (SEDSI) 2022 Conference. We would really value your time in helping us shape a great conference.

In order to be included in the SEDSI 2022 conference reviewers, you need to choose your tracks and topics of expertise by October 1, 2021. You can do so by clicking on the link below:

Choose my tracks and topics of expertise

If you would like to learn more on how to choose your topics you can follow our step-by-step guide on the link below:

https://support.exordo.com/article/455-accepting-an-invite-as-a-reviewer-what-happens-next

We understand that many of you have very demanding commitments, therefore if you wish to respectfully decline this invitation you should click on the link below (and we won't bother you with any further emails).

I respectfully decline this invitation

Last year SEDSI 2020 in Charleston featured 361 contributing authors, and special sessions panelists, of 170 institutions from 17 countries, who submitted a total of 209 papers, workshops or special panels. SEDSI 2021 Webinars were held virtually on February 11, 2021 with a total of 478 registrants and 257 attendees, yielding a ratio (of attendees to registrants) of 54%.

You are also invited to submit your paper/abstract for the SEDSI 2022 Conference in Jacksonville, Florida on February 16-18, 2022. A copy of Call for Papers is attached in this email. The online submission system at https://sedsi2021.exordo.com/ is ready for your submission. The deadline of paper submissions is November 1, 2021.

Thanks!
